BANIA (Bundelkhandhi)

of India

Population: 23,000

Religion: Hinduism

Christian: 0%

Language: Bundelkhandhi

The Bania are a wealthy and influential community. They control the economy of the country, as a majority of industrialists belong to this community.

Bania women have a low status and are usually confined to their homes though some help their husbands in the family shop and city women work. The women take part in social and religious functions only.

Pray for the salvation of the Bania people. Pray that they'd come to know and love the Lord and that they would use their influence in the country for His glory.
